CHOC TALK

A sweet treat awaits in the Macy's wing at Fashion Valley where premium Swiss chocolatier Läderach has opened its first San Diego boutique. Indulge in more than 85 varieties of artisanal chocolate from the FrischSchoggi (chocolate counter) for the ultimate sugar rush. Pralines and truffles, anyone? us.laderach.com; simon.com/mall/fashion-valley

WINGING IT Travel like an A-lister with Carlsbad's Schubach Aviation, which offers a range of jets and private planes to charter or rent. The latest addition to its elite fleet is the iconic Gulfstream G450, an ultraluxe, long-range jet that allows for nonstop travel to the East Coast, Hawaii or Mexico. With space for up to 14 passengers or six overnight guests—its 14 seats transform into four single and one double bed—the chic yet comfortable cabin provides a full-service galley, four-seat dining and conference table, Wi-Fi and in-flight entertainment. Fresh oxygen is replenished every two minutes as the vessel cruises at a sea-level altitude of 6,000 feet to curb jet lag. Head to McClellan-Palomar Airport to soar up, up and away in style. 760.929.0307, schubachaviation.com

TO DINE FOR

Make a splash in the days leading up to Valentine's Day at the Gray Whale Conservation Dinner Feb. 12 at InterContinental San Diego's Vistal Bar + Restaurant. Hosted by Gray Whale Gin, Wildcoast and Xplore Offshore, the benefit dinner will feature a three-course meal highlighted by sustainable and locally sourced seafood from chef de cuisine Todd Bencivenni's new menu. Environmental advocates from Wildcoast and Xplore Offshore will share how guests can support the conservation of the majestic gray whale as Gray Whale Gin cocktails are served alongside ingredients sourced from the places located along the whales' migration path—think hand-zested limes from Baja California, fresh mint from Santa Cruz and wild foraged juniper berries from Big Sur. Making waves, indeed. vistalsd.com; eventbrite.com
